

LANE BEACHLY

"Over the years I've accumulated dozens of surfboards in every shape and size from all over the world but the delights of such a diverse quiver of boards are dampened by the serious storage dilemma which inevitably comes with it. Almost all the boards I've collected over the course of my career have such strong, significant sentimental value to me. They aren't simply boards, but truly parts of my life.

Many of the boards I have packed away in my garage represent specific milestones in my career and so the better looked after they are the more at ease I am.

Due to my busy home life and relentless travel schedule, my garage was a maze of surfboards and board bags. It was challenging to find the right board that I'm looking for; looking from one board bag, to another and another until finally when I do find it, I see it's in desperate need of repair. I was disheartened by the site of all my boards in my garage until the crew at SOLID RACKS offered to help me out. I jumped at the opportunity to be able to organise what essentially was my life.

Finding some time off in retirement, the crew at SOLID RACKS contacted me and naturally I thought this would be a perfect time to finally fix up my garage and show my boards the respect I really had for them! I was so excited to be getting decked out with some racks. SOLID RACKS are just what they claim to be.... SOLID. They are simple yet very effective and perform as well as they look. I'm happier and stress free knowing my boards are being kept in a SOLID RACKS system.

Without the help of SOLID RACKS my most prized possessions would have lived out their lives in unorganised piles, damaged and dead to the world. However, with them all neatly stowed away, safe and sound in my SOLID RACKS they have come alive and I'm excited to surf each and every one of them.... in time, again.
